PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

INDOMITABLE WILL

Our senior students are a door step away from the sixth semester examination which culminates their three-year long undergraduate studies. It is an end to a memorable phase in their life journey and a hopeful beginning of yet another fabulous phase. What you learned here, could guide you next.

One dominant aspect of human person that differentiates one from another is the use of human will in deciding what one pursues, how one perceives it and how to get there. In this line, Mahatma Gandhi once said "strength does not come from physical capacity. It comes from an indomitable will." More than anything, the will to succeed in life, study and work determines whether the present and the future look good and promising. Wish you all the best in the examination and in your future journey of life.
