

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

MASTER ONESELF

Humans have an endless amount of possibilities and opportunities. Some of which are positive and the others negative to one's growth and wellbeing. Making the right choices and adopting the necessary mindset requires conscious effort. It is observed that decisiveness and at times indecisiveness can both be good and bad depending on the situation and matter under consideration. All people who attained success would attest to the fact that discipline is the key to identify the right possibility and opportunity.

A DEPAULIAN must remember the words of Lao Tzu who said "mastering others is strength. Mastering yourself is true power." Discipline helps a person to achieve mastery over oneself. This has extensive implications since it means arriving at a mastery over one's thoughts, actions, attitudes and approaches. It is also an important value and an approach a person ought to inculcate in one's life, academics and career for building up, sustaining and achieving anything.
